EDGEWOOD COLLEGE

We build a more just and compassionate world by operating for the benefit of all of our students, by ensuring that Edgewood College will thrive, and by remaining a great place to learn.

The progress we've made, and continue to make, is what you'll experience in these pages. And as always, we have you to thank. Your gifts to scholarships, for programs like our Cutting Edge and Emerging Leaders, to academic programs that support exceptional students and graduates, are fuel to the flame that we inherit from our Dominican founders. Your engagement with Edgewood College contributes to first-generation students, internships, athletics, and all the important work we do, work that began nearly 100 years ago.

Like you, we have learned important lessons over the past few challenging years. One of those lessons is the imperative to focus on that which is essential, that which we bring through the 'portal' of the past and carry with us in our personal and professional lives. For Edgewood College, it is the mission that is essential, and that which we carry through generations.

Our investments in new partnerships, in new programs that expand the reach of our mission to new students here in Madison and around the world – and our investment in the undergraduate student experience that many of you hold dear – all of these support and enrich students in ever-evolving ways, preparing them to meet the needs of a changing world. And at the heart of all this is Edgewood College.

Be well! Cor Ad Cor Loquitur.

Andrew P. Manion, Ph.D.
President

Each year, in addition to sharing their time and talent, Trustees commit to making an annual gift to the College. Gifts from Trustees advance our mission and strategic operating goals while supporting the critical needs of our students today and for generations to come. Thank you to our past and current Trustees who achieved our goal of 100% financial participation!

WASHBURN Society

Those who include Edgewood College as a beneficiary of their planned giving are welcomed to the Washburn Society, a giving society named to honor the legacy of Wisconsin Governor Cadwallader Washburn, who gifted his villa and 55 acres of land to the Dominican Sisters of Sinsinawa in 1881. The gift was to be used for educational purposes, and the land would be known as Edgewood.

SCOTT VON RUEDEN '06 played all four years on the baseball team while earning his bachelor's degree in Business with a minor in Spanish.

"My parents weren't too sure about me playing collegiate sports, because I was a pretty disorganized person in high school," he recalls. Things worked out pretty well, though, as Scott now has lifelong friends from the team, and has used the skills he gained as a student-athlete to enhance his professional career. Scott currently serves as Senior Experience Owner – AmFam.com at American Family Insurance.

His parents remained connected to Coach Al Brisack, Head Coach of the baseball team. Coach Brisack even sent Scott's mom, Joyce, inspirational videos and pep talks while she was battling cancer. Sadly, Joyce passed away in 2021.

His mother's death prompted Scott to get his own affairs in order. "I don't take part in a lot of risky activities, but something could happen at any time," he shared. With the support of his financial advisor, Scott established the VON RUEDEN FAMILY BASEBALL FUND through his living trust, giving future generations of players the opportunity to enjoy the game of baseball and the student-athlete experience as much as he did.

THANK YOU TO OUR WASHBURN SOCIETY MEMBERS

We are grateful to the following who have included a provision for a future estate gift to Edgewood College. † Deceased

EDGEWOOD COLLEGE SECURES PROPERTY FOR ATHLETICS AND WELLNESS

In September 2022, Edgewood College purchased a 40-acre property in the city of Fitchburg (a 10-minute drive from our main campus) to support our vision for an Athletics and Wellness Campus. The proposed plan will benefit all students and our community with athletic training and competition venues, fitness and intramural space, sports medicine, student classrooms, walking trails, community engagement opportunities, environmental sustainability projects, wetland restoration, and more.

The site is formerly part of the O'Brien Family Farm. The family identified Edgewood College as their choice of next owner of the farmland, which is located on the corner of Lacy Road and Seminole Highway.

Margaret O'Brien, O.P. '70, MA '94, is a cousin who has visited the farm and her extended family over the course of generations. A long-time faculty member at Edgewood College who has since retired, Sr. Margaret offered this blessing for the occasion:

"Gracious God, never did I dream I would be back on this soil with my love for Edgewood College as a close companion. Today is truly a day to recall and instill the Dominican values of Truth, Justice, Compassion, Community, and Partnership. May this facility be a safe place, with understanding and acceptance of all races and religions. May this land which has given birth to many crops continue to give new ways of growth in the field of athletics, health and wellness, and education. May it be a place of discovery where the clay of souls created in the image of our God emerge for all that is yet to come to birth. May this land shelter and enrich many new lives. May students, athletes, faculty, staff, and many others come here to find a new facility filled with energy and the pursuit of lifetime dreams. May it be a continued place of rest and peace. Amen."

I WENT FROM NOT KNOWING WHAT LACROSSE WAS TO GETTING 10 GOALS AND MAKING SECOND TEAM ALL-CONFERENCE. PLAYING LACROSSE HAS MADE MY COLLEGE EXPERIENCE GREAT. IT HAS BROUGHT ME CLOSER TO THIS COMMUNITY.”

SUANN SALTZBERRY NAMED FIRST FEMALE DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

In November 2022, Suann (Adler) Saltzberry '05, MBA '09, was appointed Director of Athletics. Saltzberry brings 16 years of collegiate athletics experience to her new role. She was a prolific three-sport athlete and a 12-time varsity letter winner in her career at Edgewood College from 2000-04, playing volleyball, basketball, and softball.

Suann returned to her alma mater in 2006 when she joined the staff as the athletic business manager and most recently served as the associate director of athletics. With her new appointment, Saltzberry becomes the first female director of athletics overseeing all intercollegiate athletics in the Madison area. “I am eager to further engage and enhance the student-athlete experience, as athletics serves as an important complement to the educational mission of our college,” said Saltzberry. She receives the torch from long-time director Al Brisack, who has led the department since 2006. Brisack will continue to serve our students as head baseball coach, leading the development of the Fitchburg property, and as Associate Vice President for Athletics Development.

“We are very excited that Suann Saltzberry is the new Director of Athletics for Edgewood College. In addition to her strong background in athletics administration, she also brings her own experience as an Edgewood College Eagle to this role, making her the ideal person to lead our athletics programs,” President Manion said.

EMERGING LEADERS PROGRAM

Our emerging world needs change makers, critical thinkers, and leaders. This year, Edgewood College announced a new name for the Community Scholars program that builds upon its successes and reflects the needs of today's students and workforce – Emerging Leaders.

The Emerging Leaders program is one of our premier student leadership programs, created to serve historically underrepresented students, first-generation students, and students in financial need with academic and leadership potential. Students receive individualized support, scholarship access, and engage in leadership and service opportunities.

Richard A. Sims,
Interim Chief Diversity,
Equity, and Inclusion Officer

This fall, we will expand the number of students served, enhance our funding model and staff support, and expand our reach to all of Wisconsin. This vision for the future is not created nor carried out alone – it is realized through the partnership and dedication of each person.

With the support of community partners, we have 34 graduates who are currently making a difference in our schools, hospitals, businesses, and our communities – alumni who promote the common good, advocate for justice, and engage in work that is transforming our communities – and our world.

EDGEWOOD COLLEGE EAGLE SOARS WITH SUPPORT FROM THE CUTTING EDGE® PROGRAM

MADISON NATIVE NATE BARGE '23 has strong connections to the city's culture, and his passion for the game of baseball has played a large role in guiding him toward "home plate." A graduate of Madison Memorial High School and a member of their baseball team, he wanted to continue his education and remain connected to athletics. But he wasn't sure how to move forward and still achieve his goals. Finding a home through the Cutting Edge program, he discovered a passion for social media content creation while seeking a degree in communications.

CUTTING EDGE PROGRAM HELPS NATE WIN IN THE CLASSROOM

Nate credits the supportive services of the Cutting Edge program for providing a large spark for his successes. This program is designed to provide individualized support for students with intellectual and developmental disabilities, notably in the form of class tutors, study sessions, and more. Nate developed his confidence and ability to really dive into an education he's excited about. With gratitude for his course coaches, or peer tutors, he shared how beneficial it was to connect one-on-one with resources that met his learning needs. Not only did this support allow him to expand his course load, it also helped him discover and explore his passion and have the confidence to choose a major. Calling it the "perfect pathway," Nate decided to pursue a bachelor's degree in communications with an emphasis in digital marketing.

"BARGY" JOINS THE BASEBALL TEAM

With encouragement from his former high school coach (and Edgewood College Alumnus) Tim Richardson '09, MA '12, Nate joined the men's baseball team. Nicknamed 'Bargy' by his teammates, he served as the team's student manager. It was no surprise that Nate's passion grew through his involvement with the athletic department. Initially tasked with tracking statistics and keeping score, Nate discovered skills in digital marketing. His role expanded as he was entrusted to lead the athletic department's social media accounts. Nate has led the way in handling live score updates, pre-game and post-game updates, conducted post-game interviews, curated content, and even encouraged players through inspirational speeches. In the process, Nate has also gained several relationships in the community of Edgewood College. Student-athletes, faculty and staff, and coaches have made him feel more connected to life on campus.

WHAT'S ON-DECK FOR NATE?

Having an opportunity to intern last summer for the Lakeshore Chinooks, a collegiate summer baseball team in the Northwoods League, Nate showcased his social media skills, and his career ambitions were confirmed. Nate will be job shadowing others in the industry as he looks to build a career in supporting an athletic organization's digital marketing operations. Nate also hopes to inspire students with intellectual and developmental disabilities to take advantage of the opportunities offered through the Cutting Edge program at Edgewood College.

Now a college graduate, Nate was unable to attend the spring commencement ceremony as he was traveling with the baseball team. He was presented his college diploma in a private ceremony with President Andrew Manion.

Dan and Mary's most recent gifts supported students and staff who took part in a border immersion experience during March 2023, in collaboration with the Hope Border Institute in El Paso, Texas. The group is standing at the Diocesan Migrant & Refugee Service mural entitled, "You Belong." Its modern-day message is one of unconditional love and unity.

BENEFACTOR SPOTLIGHT

DAN '88 AND MARY STRIZEK

Dan Strizek '88 grew up in and around Fond du Lac, Wisconsin. After graduating from Horace Mann High School, in north Fond du Lac, he joined the military and served four years in the Air Force at various posts around the Eastern Mediterranean.

Dan's relationship with Edgewood College first began with his involvement in the "Baroque Chorus" community choir. He later enrolled in the weekend degree program at age 34, graduating in 1988 with a bachelor of arts degree in Religious Studies. Along the way, Dan developed deep connections to those who had created a loving and welcoming community for him at Edgewood College -- in particular, Sr. Marie Stephen Reges and Sr. Loretta Dornisch '62. This educational experience created a new career path, which he found in Colorado as the Pastor in The United Methodist Church.

Today, Dan is retired and active. He holds a Doctor of Ministry, is a published author, enjoys adaptive sports, and remains a lifelong learner. His granddaughter, Abbey, is a student at Edgewood College, making her mark both in the classroom and on the volleyball court, carrying on the family legacy. When asked to share advice with our current students, Dan and his wife Mary responded with great faith, "Keep Changing the World."

Dan and Mary created the Strizek Scholarships and the Strizek Funds for Mission, Values, and Inclusion to honor and advance Edgewood College's Catholic mission, Dominican tradition, and commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

PLEASANT T. ROWLAND FOUNDATION ENDOWMENT FUND

Established in 2014, the Pleasant T. Rowland Foundation Endowment Fund has been a significant and dependable source of support, providing tens of thousands of dollars every year for programming in The Stream, our visual and theatre arts center at Edgewood College. The Stream is an important place where the campus community comes together to experience the joy and learning offered by the arts.

The Theatre Arts department has benefitted from the associated endowment funds for everything from contracting guest directors, choreographers, and musicians, to purchasing performance rights, programs, and equipment.

In the 2022-2023 season, one of the four productions benefitting from the Pleasant T. Rowland Endowment Fund was the 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee. Open to all students for participation, they performed as actors, costume designers, and lighting and set technicians. Our students worked tirelessly to bring the script alive onstage, showing happiness and heartache through hilarious and touching stories.

WPS CHARITABLE FOUNDATION

Last year, WPS Charitable Foundation provided a generous grant of $12,500 to support our Department of Military and Veteran Services. This grant helped our students who are in current military service, are military veterans, and/or are dependents of those individuals.

A portion of the grant went to student scholarships—those for adult student veterans and dependents who do not have 100% tuition coverage from the Federal GI Bill, the State of Wisconsin veteran benefits programs, or other financial aid common to traditional undergraduate students.

Support also went to student programming to benefit the more than 90 veterans and dependents enrolled last year. WPS Charitable Foundation focuses on enhancing their home communities through support of military and veterans, women and children, seniors, and underserved populations.

 INFORMATION

THE POWER OF SELF EXPRESSION

Recipient of the 2022 Dominican Mission Award, Opal Tomashevsk, MS '18 grew up holding Edgewood College in great esteem. Raised in one of Madison's poorest neighborhoods, Opal never did think "a Wexford kid" would realize her dream of attending a school she admired for its excellence. Born into poverty and to a trailblazing single mother, she witnessed what a difference one person can make in their community. Opal didn't just learn about social justice in her youth – she lived it. Her mother fought tirelessly to solve problems that society often ignored, and this passion would lead Opal to feel an anointing to continue her mother's fight for social and economic justice.

THE UNEXPECTED BLESSING OF EDUCATION

Though the statistics were against her, Opal is the first in her family to break the chains of poverty. She is the first generation in her family to graduate from college, the first to earn a master's degree, and the first to work in the corporate world. While pursuing her master's degree in organizational development, Opal discovered the key to unlocking her success. She shares, "Edgewood College is the place I learned one of the most valuable lessons of all, in that I did not have to separate my art from my academic or professional life. Inherently, I have always known that I am most brilliant when I am creating. However, I had been taught that others wouldn't value that part of me the same way they did academic intelligence or corporate problem-solving. All of that changed during my first class in graduate studies at Edgewood College."

Opal knew she had a gift of spoken word, but she didn't believe it could be infused into the academic and professional facets of her life. That is, until Dr. Judy Adrian tasked her class to complete a group presentation. It was the final project of the semester and Professor Adrian challenged the class to create presentations that "dazzle." The entire group found this mysterious word to be perplexing. During a round table discussion, Opal recalled feeling ridiculous and yet, she bravely suggested her abilities to do rap and spoken word. Their presentation transformed into a "dazzling" three-act play narrated in spoken word. A defining moment in her life, Opal's passion for spoken word led her to becoming the first generation in her family to be a spoken word artist, emcee, and author. Similar to the strong mother who raised Opal, she uses her powerful words to help open hearts and minds by embracing the creative and brilliant ways her mind connects complex emotions and simple concepts, or abstract ideas to tangible truths.

CREATIVITY IN CORPORATE AMERICA

Director of Multicultural Business Strategy at TruStage (formerly CUNA Mutual Group), Opal is dedicated to leading and advancing the efforts of the Multicultural Business Strategy Team (MCBS). MCBS exists to help TruStage understand multicultural consumers, identify business opportunities, develop action plans, and execute those plans to better serve underserved consumers and generate substantial business growth. She continues to infuse spoken word poetry into the corporate world and shares, "It allows me to combine creativity and innovation to engage audiences and create movement in business." Her gift of spoken word has changed the trajectory of her career opening the door to diverse opportunities.

UNIQUE STORYTELLING DEFINES OPAL'S OWN STORY

The Dominican Mission Award was presented to Opal in recognition for her commitment to social justice and her history of extraordinary volunteer service in the community. Opal is a co-host of Black Currency, a financial literacy podcast available on all platforms. She serves on the Board of Directors for UCAN (Urban Community Arts Network), the Midwest chapter for the African American Credit Union Coalition, and on the advisory council for the Melanin Project. In 2020 she was named as one of Wisconsin's 51 most influential Black Leaders by Madison 365 Media. She believes when people come together, community happens.

Fittingly, it was Opal's former classmate from the master's program who nominated her for this distinguished award. In the nomination, she writes, "Opal has used her educational and personal experience to expand her professional impact on addressing racial equality and inclusion in the corporate office, and as a Spoken Word Artist performing on the top of State Street. Opal is truly an asset to Edgewood College's ability to produce graduates who go on to influence its community and beyond." It was Edgewood College, a school that Opal dreamed of as a child, where Opal first learned her value in being able to effect positive change, and what has followed an empowering testimony of leading positive change.
